CENTERS
OF THE
GARNET

UNIVERSITY

F O R E W O R D

The five off-campus Centers whose activities are recorded in this volume are integral parts of the University of South Carolina. They offer the first two years of college work in most fields, and their students and faculty belong to the parent institution just as much as if their classes were meeting on the home campus in Columbia. The buildings used have been provided by the communities served. All in all, the program has made great strides since the first Center opened in Florence in the fall of 1957.

There is a bond among the Centers which has caused them to desire a yearbook of their own. This feeling, along with the fact that very limited space was available in a Garnet and Black already crowded with stories of life on the main campus, has resulted in this first Centers edition. It has been planned, produced, and financed as a Centers operation.

DEDICATION

To Doctor NICHOLAS P. MITCHELL, Director of General Studies and Extension, the students of the University Centers gratefully dedicate this volume. Giving unstintingly of his time and talents he has helped to carry the University far beyond its Columbia campus.

We hope to express in this small way our admiration for his outstanding qualities of leadership and our appreciation of his sincere interest in the future of young people, which has manifested itself in his unceasing and highly successful efforts to place university training within easy reach of every qualified high school graduate in our state.

AIKEN

CHRISTOPHER SAMUEL SHARP
Resident Director
Aiken County Center

The Aiken County Center of the University of South Carolina, housed in a beautiful old Southern mansion on a four-acre lot in the heart of the city's winter colony, offers freshman and sophomore requirements for students throughout Aiken County and several adjoining counties.

Established in May, 1961, the Center began its first year with an enrollment of 196—and this year added almost a hundred students (with a ratio of four boys to every girl).

In the midst of an "education-conscious" section, the Aiken Center has been well received by the people of the area, and it has exceeded all expectations in its rapid growth and development.

In addition to the "usual" course of study for first and second year students—and a two-year secretarial training course—the Center has been fortunate in being able to offer several extra electives, such as Russian and journalism. It is hoped that the first year of nurses' training can be added in the fall of 1963.

COUNTY CENTER

Even though all students at the Aiken County Center are "day students," the program is a well-rounded one, offering time for fun as well as for serious study. The student government association promotes several dances during the year—festively formal at Christmas, Easter and May Day, with orchestral music—in the Center's beautiful ballroom.

The crowning of the May Queen and Miss Aiken County Center are two highlights of the spring semester. Nobody knows the results of the secret balloting—not even the winners themselves—until the May dance when the queens and other top contestants are recognized with proper pomp and pageantry.

Other "outside activities" are offered by the varied sports program, literary projects and several course-related clubs.

A comfortable student center offers space for relaxation and fellowship between classes, with popular records and a canteen within arm's reach. The addition of a college radio station has provided fun and music, besides offering a practical way to distribute announcements and "campaign commercials."

Many students at the Aiken County Center work and go to school at the same time—some holding down full-time jobs between classes and others doing part-time work. Job opportunities for the college student in the area are many and varied—from buyer for an exclusive clothing store in the city to "walking horses" at the crack of dawn during Aiken's popular horse training-and-racing season.

Next year's program looks towards the organization of a collegiate Christian association and other activities, such as a drama club and literary society.

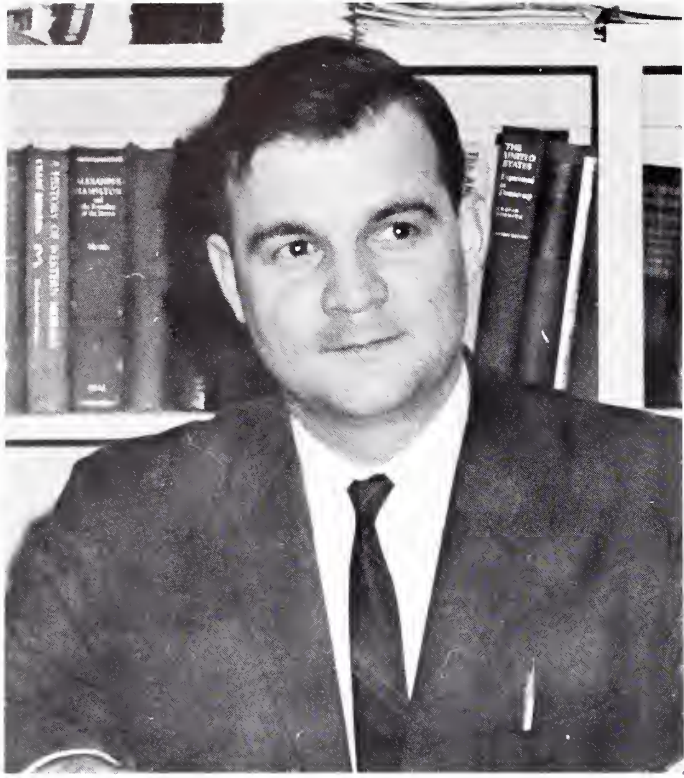

The excellent school spirit and wholesome atmosphere prevalent among students at the Aiken County Center show that they are proud of their college as they go about pursuing their studies in preparation toward taking their places in a "changing world."

HIGHER EDUCATION COMMISSION

Chairman Francis A. Townsend, left, and Secretary Charles F. Kneece of the Aiken County Commission for Higher Education think over plans for the University's Aiken County Center. Other members of the commission are: Julian D. Ellett, Elden Jones, Don D. Kennedy, George Parks, Eugene Sawyer and Raymond Warner.

BEAUFORT

JOHN JOSEPH DUFFY, JR.
Resident Director
Beaufort Center

In July, 1959, the University of South Carolina and Beaufort County began operating the Beaufort Center. The first classes met in September in five rooms of the Beaufort College Building. Since 1959 the student body has grown from 70 to 215 and the faculty from six to 11. The number of courses offered has increased correspondingly.

The Center now occupies the entire ante-bellum College building. For the first time in more than a hundred years, this historic building is being used for the purpose for which it was built. Extensive restoration of the building is planned for this summer. When the 1963 Fall session opens the University, the County and the College trustees will possess a functional and beautiful facility.

The Center furnishes the first two years of college work to students in the Beaufort area. The convenient location enables these students to receive a quality education at an economy price. To assure the maintenance of standards, all faculty members are chosen by department heads at the Columbia campus.

The University operates a complete day and evening session. In this way courses are available in the daytime to regular college age students and at night to military and adult students. Beaufort, Hampton, Jasper and Colleton Counties as well as the military bases in the area are represented in the student body. The Center also attempts to serve the general educational needs of the area by furnishing facilities for extension courses in education and non-academic courses, such as piloting, which are of general interest to adult students.

The Center has continued to expand its activities to meet the educational needs of the area. New courses have been added each school year. The two-year secretarial training course represents the most recent addition. The Center has prospered and will continue to prosper because it meets a real need for higher educational opportunity in one of South Carolina's most rapidly developing regions.

HIGHER EDUCATION COMMISSION

The Beaufort County Higher Education Commission appointed by the Governor serves as a liaison between Beaufort County and the University in administering the Center. Pictured are Howard Cooper, Mrs. Lee Bradbury and Marvin Dukes, Chairman. Not Pictured: Dr. Parker Jones.

COASTAL CAROLINA

During the summer of 1954 a number of citizens of Horry County created the Coastal Educational Foundation, an eleemosynary corporation for the establishment of a junior college in Conway. To this end they enlisted the help of their own public school officials, secured the sponsorship of the College of Charleston, and solicited their fellow citizens for financial support. The Coastal Carolina Junior College opened September 20, 1954, with an initial enrollment of fifty-three students.

From September, 1954, through June of 1958, the Coastal Carolina Junior College was an off-campus branch of the College of Charleston. During this period a thriving summer school was established which rivaled the regular session in registrants and enthusiasm. The summer school offerings were designed primarily for the teachers of the public school system.

In September, 1958, Coastal Carolina Junior College became an independent institution and continued as such until the fall of 1960 when it became an integral part of the University system. The College was renamed as the University of South Carolina Coastal Carolina Center.

The residents of Horry County have twice shown their willingness to sacrifice for the college. First, they added a new tax to an already heavy tax load. Second, they showed all of South Carolina that they could pool their donations and raise $300,000 to get the new campus started.

The Coastal Carolina Center is at present the guest of the Conway High School. Offices are maintained in this building, and the facilities of the high school are at the Center's disposal after 3:00 p.m. In addition, for the school year of 1962-63, Coastal Carolina has had an extra classroom for its use throughout the day so that morning classes could be scheduled.

A beautiful new building is presently taking shape on the 128-acre campus between Myrtle Beach and Conway. This building will be ready for occupancy for the fall registration of 1963. With completion of the new building Coastal Carolina Center will be granted broad expansion in its total program. Many courses of study are to find multiple advantage through facilities afforded in a structure designed to meet the need. Added subjects in science will become a part of the curriculum with the new laboratories made available and many activities pointed beyond the immediate student body will be inaugurated. Students and community participants alike will find a wealth of advantage in the opportunities presented with the new building.

Every phase of the Center's life will be strengthened and made more fruitful in community relations. Cultural activities will bring lyceum atmosphere, and adult evening programs are to be made available.

It is anticipated that the University of South Carolina Coastal Carolina Center will become the focal point for cultural and intellectual pursuits in its part of the state.

FLORENCE

FREDERICK CHARLES PERRY, JR.
Resident Director
Florence Center

The Florence Center stands as a monument to the public-spirited citizens of the Pee Dee area who in 1957 approached the University with a request that university-level training be made available to residents of the eastern section of South Carolina within a reasonable commuting distance of their homes. So convinced of the need for such a facility were these emissaries that they had obtained authorization to supply temporary quarters and to underwrite operational expenses with county funds until a state appropriation could be made available.

As a careful investigation indicated that such a need did exist, the University placed its stamp of approval on a residence-credit freshman program differing in no way from that on main campus and opened its doors to 52 young people on September 16, 1957.

The success of this initial year was so great that in September of 1958 a sophomore year was added with a resultant increase in enrollment to 113 students.

In 1959, the Education Committee of the Florence Chamber of Commerce adopted as its project the raising of funds with which to provide for the University a permanent campus. In this same year the Pee Dee Educational Foundation, an eleemosynary organization entrusted with receiving and disbursing funds donated for this purpose, was chartered, and $320,000 was obtained in cash and in pledges.

Stokes Hall—Administration and Classroom Building (front view).

CENTER

In January of 1960 Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wallace and Mr. Walter B. Wallace gave to the Foundation 100 acres of land and an eleven-room colonial style mansion. This generous act enabled the Foundation to begin construction of a $300,000 academic building immediately, and by April of 1961 the University moved to its new campus.

Since that date the grounds have been landscaped, the Wallace mansion has been renovated, and an athletic area is now in use.

Academic offerings at present include the fields of biology, chemistry, physics, English, French, German, Spanish, history, political science, psychology, education, accounting, economics, algebra, trigonometry, analytical geometry, calculus, engineering drawing and descriptive geometry.

Students who have begun their college training in Florence have won such outstanding honors as the Bates Award in creative writing, the William Randolph Hearst Award in journalism, the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, and the Phi Beta Kappa Outstanding Freshman Award.

In the field of extra-curricular activities the Florence Center is a member of the Carolina League and fields teams in baseball, basketball, and tennis, while intramural competition is encouraged in such sports as table tennis and softball. The Circle K Service Fraternity, with a membership composed of those students who are outstanding in scholarship, leadership, and service, and the ETA Chi Kappa Service Sorority are active on campus.

Although an infinite number of people have played a role in the success of this program, a special accolade must go to Dr. J. Howard Stokes, Mr. James A. Rogers, Mr. Clifford S. Cornell of Florence, and to Dr. N. P. Mitchell and Dr. W. H. Patterson of the University for contributions of unusual magnitude.

LANCASTER

ELMER DON HERD, JR.
Resident Director
Lancaster Center

The Lancaster Center of the University of South Carolina opened its doors on September 21, 1959, with a student body of 51 students. Since that date the student body has doubled and tripled. The 1962-63 school year saw 150 Lancaster area students enrolled for normal freshman-sophomore courses. Besides the normal freshman-sophomore course offerings the Lancaster Center has an active adult education program handled through its University Community College. The Lancaster Center, in conjunction with the Division of General Studies and Extension, also makes available special graduate courses for public school teachers of the area.

In 1962 the Lancaster Center, attempting to further meet the needs of the growing college community, began its first summer course offerings. This first venture into summer courses proved so successful that an enlarged summer program is planned for the 1963 summer session.

The programs of the Lancaster Center served some 286 students and adults during 1962-63. Classes are continually scheduled from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. thus affording university education at a time that would be convenient for all segments of the Lancaster Community.

The Main Building of the Lancaster Center.

CENTER

At present the Lancaster Center is housed in three buildings in downtown Lancaster. The Center building, Williams Hall, is a three-story former residence that has been converted for University use. Located in Williams Hall are: the administration offices, the Center Library, three classrooms, student lounge, student canteen, biology laboratories, microfilm reading room, series of faculty offices and several storage rooms. Adjacent to Williams Hall is a small laboratory building which contains the chemistry laboratories. In a nearby commercial building the growing Center has recently acquired some 3,000 sq. feet of floor space that now houses the Secretarial Training Department and Engineering Drawing Laboratory.

However, as a result of the constant growth and constant utilization of the Lancaster Center it was realized that the present facilities would soon prove inadequate to handle the educational demands of the area. With this problem in mind the citizens of Lancaster, in March, 1963, formed the Lancaster County Educational Foundation to conduct a capital fund campaign with a view to building spacious permanent quarters for the Lancaster Center. The leadership of this foundation was placed in the hands of former Congressman J. P. Richards, as chairman of the board, and J. C. Hubbard, as president of the foundation.

The actual operation and maintenance of the Lancaster Center is a joint project of the Division of General Studies and Extension of the University and the Lancaster County Educational Commission. This Commission is composed of eight important Lancaster County citizens: Julian E. Starr, Jr., chairman; Dr. William E. Sims, Jr., vice-chairman; Ned Gregory, treasurer; William Heath Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Clara P. Hammond; James F. Hinson; Dr. William L. McDow; and Ray Faulkenberry, County Superintendent of Education.

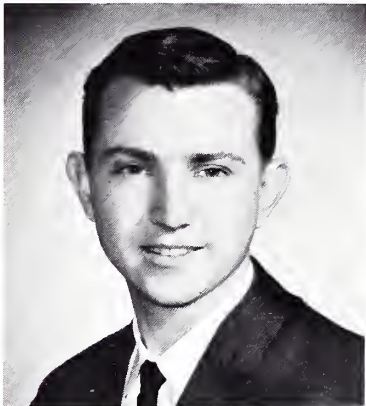

Since its establishment in 1959, the Lancaster Center has been under the direction of E. Don Herd, Jr. Besides Mr. Herd's administrative duties, he is also assistant professor of American History. Like the student body, the faculty has constantly grown since the inception of the Center. The faculty now numbers 13 full or part-time instructors representing ten academic disciplines. The Lancaster Center is proud it is able to offer the finest educational opportunities for the students of the Lancaster area.

ENGINEERS' CLUB

To learn more about the field of engineering is the goal of the student Engineers' Club organized this year at the Aiken County Center under the sponsorship of the local chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

SAFETY CADETS

A scholarship plan unique among colleges in the south is the Public Safety Cadet Program offered by the City of Aiken in conjunction with the Aiken County Center. Each year two students, by examination, are given scholarships by the city to pay their tuition for full residence credit at the Center while they carry on full-time jobs with the city police and fire departments. Alternating courses with safety duties this year under the cadet program were Tommy Cullinan and Tommy Padgett. First "graduate" of the program was Barry Whaley, who now has the full-time job of manning the Silver Bluff Fire Station at Aiken while carrying a full load of studies at the Center.
